PRESS RELEASE

Calling all Educators to Register for the National Day of Learning – ‘Teach to Remember 9/11’

Flight 93 National Memorial, August 8, 2023 | Friends of Flight 93 National Memorial, the official non-profit partner to the National Park Service at Flight 93 National Memorial is pleased to announce the launch of the virtual platform for the National Day of Learning to be held September 11, 2023.

The National Day of Learning “Teach to Remember” is a virtual education program being offered as part of the evolving 9/11 ceremony at Flight 93 National Memorial. Educators are welcome to register their classroom at www.flight93friends.org/education/teach2remember.

And although the programming is targeting grades 6-12, this virtual event has options for all grade levels.

Once registered, teachers will receive a link for accessing resources to enhance the virtual learning program. On September 11, a video gallery will be available to include ranger guided tours of each of the Memorials features, interviews with family members, investigation of the crime scene and a pre-recorded moment of remembrance for those unable to view the live stream event on September 11.

Also on 9/11, participants will be welcomed via live stream by various Flight 93 leadership members. A live stream of the 9/11 ceremony from Flight 93 National Memorial as well as live Q&A sessions led by Flight 93 National Memorial rangers.

We now have an entire generation with no memory of the events of September 11, 2001. We have a responsibility to the next generation to help them understand how the events of this one day changed history. The National Day of Learning offers teachers who want to teach and students who want to learn a variety of curriculum options to choose from.

Curriculum and resources will be available beginning 9/11/2023 through the zoom platform and will remain on the platform for teacher access through the end of 2023. At that time the information can be accessed through the 9/11 resource pages of both Friends and National Park Service websites.

The National Day of Learning – Teach to Remember registration link can be accessed on Friends of Flight 93 National Memorial website at www.flight93friends.org/education/teach2remember.
