Prosecutor in 9/11 Terrorist Trial To Speak at Flight 93 National Memorial on Saturday

SHANKSVILLE, PA – Former U.S. Deputy Attorney General Paul McNulty, who oversaw the prosecution of 9/11 terrorist conspirator Zacarias Moussaoui, will be the special guest at the final Flight 93 Speaker Series of the summer on Saturday, August 17 at 12 noon and 2 p.m.

Both Speaker Series sessions are open to the public free of charge at the Learning Center of Flight 93 National Memorial.

The program will highlight McNulty's involvement with the 2006 Moussaoui trial, which made public much of the evidence investigators collected about the September 11 terrorist attacks, including Flight 93. He will discuss the events of that day and the legacy left by the Heroes of Flight 93.

McNulty previously served as U.S. Attorney for the Eastern District of Virginia. He currently is president of Grove City College in Grove City, Pa.

The Flight 93 Speaker Series is sponsored by Somerset Trust Company and supported by the Friends of Flight 93 National Memorial. For more information on the Speaker Series or other events at Flight 93 National Memorial, visit www.flight93friends.org.

ABOUT FLIGHT 93 NATIONAL MEMORIAL

On September 24, 2002, President Bush signed into law the Flight 93 National Memorial Act. The Act created a new national park unit to commemorate the passengers and crew of Flight 93 who, on September 11, 2001, courageously gave their lives thereby thwarting a planned attack on our nation's capital. The memorial is near Shanksville, Pennsylvania, where Flight 93 crashed with the loss of its 40 passengers and crew. For more information on Flight 93 National Memorial visit www.nps.gov/flni.

ABOUT THE NATIONAL PARK SERVICE

More than 22,000 National Park Service employees care for America's 417 national parks and work with communities across the nation to help preserve local history and create close-to home recreational opportunities. Learn more at: www.nps.gov.
