Flight 93 National Memorial to Dedicate Allee Trees

What: Dedication Ceremony for the Allee Trees

The recently planted allee trees will be dedicated in a brief ceremony at the Flight 93 Center. The trees are planted on the allee, the walkway which circles the impact site of flight 93. The trees, red maples, were donated by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and are a formal planting designed by Architect Paul Murdoch. Representatives from the Pennsylvania Department of Conservation and Natural Resources, the Friends of Flight 93, the National Park Foundation and the National Park Service are expected to offer brief remarks.
